LIFE AFTER MINING. Who would have thought that in a now mined-out area, a flock of goats would replace the troop of backhoes and dump trucks that once ruled the area? This initiative was started by Taganito Mining Corporation as part of its post-mine activity innovations such as a goat farm, orchidarium, fish sanctuary, vegetable and herb garden, a nursery for various indigenous plant species, etc. All these efforts the company exerts in fulfilment of its commitment to responsible mining and to render as proof that indeed, there is life after mining. Photographer: Nissi Aline S.
